

COMMUN IQUE one

LOOK AT WHAT you're doing; how you insist on continuing, when you know it's all fake. Your wonderful material possessions are actually burdens around your neck and materialist beliefs are poison to your soul. An antidote to this could be: "Negate everything and await an experiential solution", happy go lucky - yes, where one feels the doors open, etc... Something is twiddling the knobs though; the brush brushed under the carpet. A case in point the nice conspiracy investigator bloke who topped himself over a year ago. All that anyone has seen is "RIP BOB" spray-painted on the back of a road traffic sign. But worthless is delusional, for World War III is coming. The massed media says so. Be Prepared! A lot of bait is already taken, yet we can stand behind the water cannon; re-find our useful making head; be the message in one's bottle; the sky no limit. Whatever whatever, if you've had enough of everything maybe that is nothing from nowhere: www.markreeve.com
